AASU Day

AASU day is a day the whole university is involved in, where every department or group has a booth and gives a "carnival" for the community and students. All students and public come to play games, get free food and have a good time. It is very much like a carnival and it is one of the biggest events on campus, so you have to be prepared for it.

- First thing that needs to be done before planning is finding a theme. This theme needs to be approved by the faculty before anything can begin. For example, last year we had a casino theme and our saying was "Don't Gamble with your Health! Support the CARE Bill?"

- Once you have come up with your theme you must then put your order in for T-shirts, because this will take the longest to get in. The design needs to be approve before any orders can be made.

  - Last year I used the company Kayleigh Visual Design whom did a wonderful job and I would recommend using them again. Their number is (912)355-8885 and they are located at 1116 Montgomery Cross Rd.

- Once you have down this each track needs to take over a certain aspect of getting ready for the big day. The areas that need to be covered are:

  - Decorations
  - Activities and Games
  - Food

- Once everything is planned and the day is drawing closer someone needs to contact Dr. Tilson and find out where the tent is located so you know where to set up and what time the even begins. On AASU day make sure you have plenty of time to set up in case any mishaps occur. You would rather have too much time than not enough.

"Don't Gamble with your Health! Support the CARE Bill?"
AASU Day booth 2006